With You I Am Well Pleased: A Urantia Book Reader's Hope For Adjuster Fusion Carol Davidson

This book is a spiritual adventure in God largely set in a dialogue between a hearing impaired good American fundamentalist Christian woman for whom the experience of Adjuster fusion becomes alive, and God. A retired former State Librarian with a solid academic take on life, Carol Davidson's encounter with God opens her to the Urantia Book and its groundbreaking theology, Christology, philosophy and creation epic. It is a whole new spiritual landscape that is fraught with exciting and exasperating challenges that she quickly becomes obsessed to explore and overcome.

She joins online chat room discussions and, as happens in times of spiritual need along the walk of the Way, God brings to her online assistance in a person who is a companion of God. A mentor. Rob. He is twenty years her junior but has a wealth of experience in the language of New Agers, Christians, Buddhists and The Urantia Book pertaining to the life in Christ, the Eastern experience of enlightenment, and the perfection of doing the will of Jesus' heavenly Father. It is reasonable to say that whilst Carol is riding the Adjuster fusion train, Rob points the speeding wheels on the necessary rails, without which rails there could be no journey and without which pointing there could be little discernment of the Father's deeper intentions.

Carol's adventure in faith raises many intriguing issues. Can a human being actually engage God so intimately as both she and Rob write? Can a human being on the Earth actually communicate with beings well beyond the normal reach of our spiritual senses? Why is it that the language of the Urantia Book seems so foreign to Christians, Buddhists, Hindu yogis and the world's history of mystics and seers? Is this communication really real: or is it just some imagined fantasy in response to a spiritual revival that grips her and a passion for closure on this mortal life?

Carol also raises an intriguing ethical question: If God took Enoch and God took Elijah and they left no physical remains, much like many Tibetan yogis have left the Earth without leaving any physical remains, what is the evidence one can provide to Western legal authorities of Carol's death should she indeed go to heaven in the manner of Enoch and Elijah? She discloses her will to Rob and, like her, he notes the possibilities of opening the floodgates of bureaucratic inquiry about the nature of her absence. Was she murdered and buried in some hidden away place. Rob appears to be familiar with the experiences of men and women of profound spiritual depth and breadth of experience and integrity. He is never convinced that Carol at this stage in her discovery has the spiritual acumen to Adjuster fuse and so the matter of the will is to him a mute point but her will points to the heart of the matter for people not in the know. Who is really going to believe a story about her being taken to heaven by God like some Old Testament Prophet? How would you the reader handle just such a situation if it was occurring for you, or at least you believed it was about to occur to you? What would you do with your pet, your apartment, your friends? How would you convince an unbelieving and an uncaring world?
